

God Bless Us Every One - Riley

LibriVox volunteers bring you 12 recordings of "God Bless Us Everyone" by James Whitcomb Riley. This was the Weekly Poetry project for December 13, 2015.

James Whitcomb Riley was an American writer, poet, and best-selling author. During his lifetime he was known as the "Hoosier Poet" and "Children's Poet" for his dialect works and his children's poetry respectively. His poems tended to be humorous or sentimental, and of the approximately one thousand poems that Riley authored, the majority are in dialect. His famous works include "Little Orphant Annie" and "The Raggedy Man". (Summary from Wikipedia)

This poem is taken from Riley's CHRISTMAS - Its origin, celebration and significance as related in prose and poetry, published in 1912.
